Bring Unsanctioned AI Under Control

AI adoption is accelerating faster than organizations can govern it. Employees are introducing AI tools, building autonomous agents, and connecting enterprise data to external services without proper visibility or oversight.

Although these technologies create new business opportunities, unsanctioned AI can expose sensitive data, create compliance gaps, and introduce vulnerabilities through unmanaged agents and integrations.

MosaicStack Brings Hidden Risks into Focus

Tailored to your environment, MosaicStack reveals unsanctioned AI activity and identifies gaps in visibility and security controls. It then translates those findings into a roadmap that prioritizes immediate exposures and sustainable controls for responsible, secure AI adoption.

The MosaicStack Workshop Answers Critical Questions:

Visibility: Where is AI being used and what corporate data can it access?	MosaicStack connects to the systems and platforms already operating in your environment to uncover AI tools, agents, integrations, data connectors, and activity across your technology landscape.
Control: What are AI and autonomous agents permitted to do?	Identify ownership, data access, applicable policies, and control gaps to differentiate between governed AI and unmanaged or unknown activity.
Confidence: Can we adopt AI responsibly without slowing innovation?	Prioritize findings, define practical guardrails, and build a phased roadmap that addresses the highest-risk gaps while supporting responsible AI adoption.
